Tip or Complaint:	Sewer leak on Reed Bingham State Park that has been happening at least since may 24th, and continues. It is located near the pavilion on the Colquitt county side of the park. While my family and I were camping in May we observed water bubbling up from the sewer cap and raw sewage and toilet paper on the ground near the manhole. This area is located 100 ft of the beach where families gather in this area to cook out and enjoy the beach. I visited again this weekend and it was still overflowing , the smell is horrible. I tried to call the park office and the phone was not answered, nor did i see any park employees. The area was cordoned off, although the sewage water was flowing outside the cordoned off area. I decline to include my personal information as my family are regular guests and the park manager can be difficult.
